MISS HAYAM

Read the following passage then answer the questions below (20 marks) :

Clothmaking was greatly increased, both in the United States and in England, by the invention of a machine to remove the seed from the cotton, which grew in the southern area of the United States. This machine was the work of Eli Whitney, a young man from New England who had gone south to teach in a school. While visiting a plantation, he heard about the cost of separating cotton fiber from the seed. He was told that a man, working all day, could separate only a pound of cotton from the seed.

Two states in the USA had offered a prize for a machine that could do the work. Whitney became so much interested in the problem that he quit teaching and worked hard to invent a cotton gin. In 1793 he completed a machine with which a man could clean fifty pounds of cotton a day.

He continued to work on his machine, improving it so that it would clean more and more cotton. But his hope of making a great wealth with the cotton *gin never happened, because many people, after learning how, simply built gins and paid Whitney nothing for his invention.

VI- READING COMPREHENSION (20 Marks)

-Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Father was a hardworking man who delivered bread as a living to support his wife and three children. He spent all his evenings after work attending classes, hoping to improve himself so that he could one day find a better paying job. Except for Sundays, he worked and studied very hard because he wanted to provide his family with the best money he could gain.

Whenever the family complained that he was not spending enough time with them, he reasoned that he was doing all this for them. But he often promised to spend more time with his family. The day came and father passed, with distinctions too! Soon after, he was offered a good job as a senior supervisor, which paid handsomely. However, the family still did not get to see father for most of the week. He continued to work very hard, hoping to be promoted to the position of manager. He decided to hire a maid to relieve his wife from her domestic tasks. He also felt that their three-room flat was no longer big enough. In fact, sometimes Father had to work on Sundays entertaining clients. As expected, Father's hard work paid off again and he bought a beautiful villa overlooking the coast of Singapore.

On the first Sunday evening at their new home, Father declared to his family that he decided not to take anymore courses or pursue any more promotions. From then on he was going to devote more time to his family. Father did not wake up the next day. He passed away.
