C) Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

As summer comes near, many children are really happy to forget about school for a few months. However, they might be taking that goal too seriously. Studies have found that children typically forget between one and three months' worth of school learning during the summer months. Spelling and math abilities suffer the most, while reading is not really influenced by the time off. The most probable reason for this is that most children read at least occasionally outside the classroom, whether newspapers, magazines, books, or video game guides. However, their math and spelling skills only get exercised in the school setting.

The original purpose of summer vacations was to let farm children have time off to help work in the fields in the high growing season, but this reason is no longer valid since fewer kids actually work on farms today. Some cities in the United States, such as Los Angeles, have moved to a year-round school calendar, which may help reduce the academic decline that occurs during the long summer vacation. Most cities maintain the normal nine and a half-month calendars. To improve skills and to maintain a good level of preparation, superintendents recommend trips to museums, summer camps, vacations with educational components, and visits to libraries to keep kids mentally alert and interested throughout the summer.

There are other educational systems that provide vacations while still keeping students' skills sharp. For example, in Japan students attend class for seven weeks consecutively, followed by two weeks of vacation. This continues throughout the year. In Italy, students attend class six days per week, but finish at 1:30 pm each day, so that school does not dominate their life the way that it does in America, where students attend high school from 7:45 am until 3:00 pm each week day. In areas where there are not enough classrooms, older students attend classes in the morning while the younger kids go to school in the afternoon.

School administrators and educational specialists fear that the three-month summer vacation halts the continuity of learning. Just as students become accustomed to new math equations or new concepts in reading, writing, or critical thinking skills, they "shut down" for an extended period. When they go back to school after the long summer vacation, they take up to two months to return to their previous level of proficiency.

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

With the rapid development of society, we have entered an era of information explosion. In order to acquire more knowledge, more and more people decide to further their study abroad. In my country, many students continue their studying abroad. Some of them are helped by scholarship and others by their own parents.

Studying abroad brings about many advantages. It widens students' knowledge and horizons, and meanwhile cultivates their independence and personalities. Firstly, students can learn advanced knowledge and experience abroad. Secondly, studying abroad can cultivate students' ability to live independently and their characters. Students have to deal with many problems when they study abroad

They have to learn how to be accustomed to a new environment and how to get along with the teachers and classmates. During their study, they can acquire some interpersonal skills. Finally, studying abroad can provide a good language environment to students and make it easy to pick up a language. Foreign language is a tool employed to communicate with each other. It can remove language barrier and make international cooperation much easier.

However, "Every coin has its two sides". Studying abroad also brings about many disadvantages. Firstly, students will be confronted with so many psychological problems. They often feel lonely and helpless in a new environment. Furthermore, the tuition is very high, which is a very heavy financial burden to the average people. For some students however, studying abroad can be a challenging experience. Some students have great difficulty acclimating to a new environment where everything from the food to the language to the style of instruction may be different from what they are used to. Safety is another challenge in some locations so students need to take personal safety seriously and understand how to stay safe.

I have some very valuable tips for students who think to study abroad. You need to evaluate your own level of adaptability and make choices that match it. Also you need to talk to others who have studied abroad that can give students realistic information about what to expect. Put in your mind that friends who choose to study-abroad together need to have the same goals and level of adaptability. The length of stay, choice of housing, size of school and other factors will affect a student's experience

A) From a ,b ,c, and d, choose the correct answer:

1. The main idea of the passage is
 - a. Pros and cons of studying abroad.
 - b. Disadvantages of studying abroad
 - c. Advantages of studying abroad
 - d. Information explosion
2. The underlined word "acclimate" means
 - a. study abroad
 - b. stay safe
 - c. acquire more knowledge.
 - d. adapt to a new life.
3. The underlined word "it " refers to
 - a. financial burden.
 - b. advanced knowledge.
 - c. studying abroad.
 - d. student's experience
4. Students continue their studies abroad with the help of
 - a. teachers
 - b. knowledge
 - c. scholarships
 - d. skills

B) With reference to the passage, answer the following questions:

5. What problems do students have to face when studying abroad?

6. Why do many people decide to further their studies abroad?

D- Summary Making

Read the following passage, then answer the question below:

We all know that money plays an important role in our life. It is very necessary, since we need it for our food, clothes, houses and many other purposes. Of course this does not mean that money is the only source of happiness. What will the use of money be if it is spent unwisely and carelessly? Money which is ill-spent brings no real happiness or pleasure to us. So, to enjoy life we must have two other things in addition to money, health and wisdom.

Health is a splendid treasure that completes our happiness. We can't enjoy life if we are not healthy. Last of all comes wisdom. If we are foolish, we shall never be really happy, however rich or healthy we may be. Wise people are very careful with their money and health, whereas foolish people soon waste their money or ruin their health.

- In four sentences of your own, mention the four things needed for happiness, then tell how they complete each other
