Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage, then do as required below:

Ahmed has a big family. He felt bored. He did not want to follow his father's instructions. One day, he thought that he could live alone in his own world. He believed in that for just one reason: he is an adult now. He could do everything on his own. He could overcome all the problems without any help. He did not know well the importance of living among nice family members. He was really mistaken to take the decision of living alone although sometimes we need moments of loneliness. Times of warm family gatherings are important to everyone.

Ahmed's best friend is Ali who loves being among his family members. When Ahmed told his friend Ali about the matter, he advised him not to do it. He added that he could find comfort among his family members, which is really a great treasure. Besides, our families aid and support us in both difficult times and happy ones more than anyone in the world. Really, we cannot always live alone. People complete each other in such a big world. Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

It is hard to imagine how certain products were invented. How did someone think of the eraser, clay, and potato chips? It turns out many of society's most well-known inventions were simply mistakes made by scientists trying to invent. No one could ever imagine that the flavoured potato chips and the morning best preferred breakfast, corn flakes, were accidentally introduced to the world's kitchens. Potato chips were first meant to be a plate of fried potato. It was invented by George Crum, a chef at the Carey Moon Lake House. How was it created?

One day, a customer sent back his plate of potatoes many times and kept asking for them to be more fried and thinner. Crum lost his temper, sliced the potatoes extremely thin and fried them until they were hard as a rock.

To the chef's surprise, the customer loved them and wanted more! Corn Flakes were invented by the Kellogg brothers, John and Will. They were trying to make pots of boiled grain. How was it created? The brothers accidentally left a pot of boiled grain on the stove for several days. The mixture turned bad but there was something that was dry and thick. Reading Comprehension Date: // 2024

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

You have got something that is more complicated than the most powerful computer in the world. With this thing you can experience the sight and smell of a flower, the memory of holiday, the pain when you hit your thumb with a hammer, the sound of your favourite singer, your thoughts and ideas. All these are possible because of a kilo of cells in your skull: the brain.

Your brain controls everything you do. It receives information from your senses about conditions inside your body and outside it. Your brain analyses this information with amazing speed and sends out messages that control your body. For example, when you put your hand in very hot water, you think “Oh! That hurts!” and you pull your hand from the water. This is what happens in your brain. Your hand sends a message to your brain: "Very hot!" and your brain immediately sends a message to your hand: “Take your hand out.” Your brain also stores memories of things that happened to you in the past and this makes remembering easy. Finally, your brain controls your lungs, heartbeat, body temperature and the actions of your stomach.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, and then answer the questions below:

Today in my fridge, there are a few grapes, a bunch of bananas, some fruit juice, a pizza, and some burgers. I know what this food does to my body, but what does it do to the environment around me? It's time to think how different kinds of food use up our earth's resources.

Firstly, labels give lots of valuable information: how long we can keep our food, how many calories it has and where it comes from. A few hundred years ago, most of our food came from places we could walk to, but today food travels thousands of miles. We refrigerate it, then transport it in planes and ships all over the world. This creates pollution and causes global warming. I look at the slices of pizza and immediately feel guilty - not because it's unhealthy, but because the prawns on it are from Thailand. Moreover, in the USA making burgers from cows creates the same amount of greenhouse gases as 20 million cars!

Next, in the UK, we don't recycle all our packaging. We throw away more than 30% of it. This waste goes to the rubbish dump and not to the recycling Centre. Luckily, we don't need to package food like bananas, but food like grapes needs protection. So, I have decided to make a checklist for my next trip to the supermarket. First, read the label. Next, look at the packaging and third, don't buy a lot of meat. Maybe I could grow my own vegetables, too. It's eco-friendly. I would save some money and I wouldn't feel guilty about eating burgers.

| a) Eating Burgers | b) Fridges and Fruit |

Read the following passage carefully then answer the question below:

Twenty years ago, kids in schools had never even heard of the internet. Now, I will bet you cannot find a single person in your school who has not at least heard of it. The 'net' in internet really stands for network. A network is two or more computers connected together so that information can be shared or sent from one computer to another. The internet is a vast resource for all types of information. You may enjoy using it to do research for a school project, download your favourite songs or communicate with friends and family. Information is accessed through web pages that companies, organizations and individuals create and post. Anyone can put anything on the internet, so you have to be careful and use your judgment and common sense.

Therefore, you have to be sure that whoever posted the information knows what they are talking about, especially if you are doing research! If you are just emailing people, you still have to be very careful. If you have never met the person that you are communicating with online, you could be on dangerous ground! You should never give out any personal information to someone you do not know, not even your name! And just like you can't believe the information on every website out there.

Read the following text carefully then answer the questions below:

Are you an only child? Are you the oldest, the youngest or somewhere in the middle? Middle children are often good at making everyone happy. Unfortunately, they are not usually rich. Often they are not well-educated and don't have a good job. They get less attention than older children, and less money and time are spent on them. Don't worry about being a middle child though - famous and successful middle children include Bill Gates.

The youngest children very creative. They are given lots of attention from their older brothers and sisters. So their games and entertainment are often more creative. Many youngest children have successful careers in journalism and sales. Lots of famous actors and actresses are youngest children.

The most successful children are only children and first-born children. More than half of all Nobel Prize winners are first-born. Also, more people studying medicine, law and engineering are first born than middle or youngest. While middle children are easy-going, first born are ambitious and aggressive. They are also often more intelligent. So how can we explain differences? Well, first-born and only children have more attention. For only children, there is more money in a small family, so more money is spent on them. First-borns and only children are spoken to more like an adult and spend more time with adults. As a result, if the family has another child, the oldest becomes like another parent.
