-Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

On 3rd April 1973, Martin Cooper from the Motorola Company talked on his mobile phone as he walked through the streets of New York. People watched with excitement and amazement. At that time, even normal phones were attached by wires and cords and people had never seen anything like it before! It was the world's first mobile phone call. The phone weighed 850 grams! It was very heavy! Now, mobile phones weigh about 130 grams.

In the 1970s, mobile phone technology was still experimental. Mobiles weren't available to the public until 1983, when the DynaTAC was created. This mobile phone was not successful. It was huge, you could use it only for 30 minutes and it was also expensive. Only very rich people can buy it. Martin Cooper had a dream of people taking their phones with them, and being able to communicate wherever they were. However, in the early days, nobody knew if the mobile phones would be popular. Reading Comprehension Practice 2

Date: _____

Period No. _____

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

We live on a blue planet, with oceans and seas covering more than 71 per cent of the Earth's surface. Oceans are enormous bodies of water. They have the tallest mountains in the world, the biggest cliffs and the deepest valleys.

The boundaries between the oceans are based on geographic criteria and have little to do with physical water-mass boundaries. The Pacific is the largest and deepest ocean and lies between America and Asia. The other oceans, in order of size, are the Atlantic, the Indian, the Southern, and the Arctic. The Arctic is the shallowest of all the oceans and is largely covered by ice.

An explanation of the origin of the world's oceans must account for both the great ocean basins as well as the source of the water that fills them. Perhaps surprisingly, neither the basins nor the volume of water in them has remained constant over the history of the Earth. In addition, the time required to collect the volume of water in the present oceans is unknown.

Oceans and seas are very important. They are responsible for the regulation of many major processes that occur on the surface of the Earth. Much of the rain that falls on land areas is derived from oceanic evaporation. Oceans also act as reservoirs for numerous other substances that provide a protecting effect on the levels of various gases in the atmosphere. They, also, represent a place of recreation, a means of transportation, and a storehouse of food, mineral resources, and energy.

a. Choose the most suitable word from a, b, c and d:

1. What is the main idea of the paragraph 4?

a- Where the water came from

b- How deep the oceans are

c- Why oceans are important

d- What the oceans are

- 2. What does the underlined word (enormous) in paragraph 1 mean?
 - a- cracked
 - b- big
 - c- shallow
 - d- interesting

- 3. What does the underlined word (that) in paragraph 3 refer to?
 - a- account
 - b- ocean
 - c- source
 - d- water

- 4. What are the boundaries of the oceans based on?
 - a- geographic criteria
 - b- how ice they have
 - c- their major processes
 - d- the water they have

- 5. According to the text, one of the following statements is NOT TRUE:
 - a- Oceans do a lot of things for us.
 - b- The volume of water does not change.
 - c- The number of oceans on the earth is five.
 - d- The oceanic evaporation causes most of the rain.

- 6. The purpose of the writer in writing the text is to:
 - a- let us know where we live
 - b- teach us about the valleys in oceans
 - c- tell us how important the oceans are
 - d- inform us where the oceanic water came from

b. Answer the following question:

7. How much of the Earth’s surface is covered with the water of the oceans and seas?

8. Why are the oceans and seas very important?
.....

Pollution

Pollution is a major problem in the modern cities all around the world. There are many causes for pollution. People use cars, trucks and planes and they need fossil fuels. Using fossil fuels is causing pollution to land and the air. Smoke coming from factories is also causing pollution. All products that we use in our daily life also have chemicals which cause pollution.

However, there can be solutions for the problem of pollution. We can start by planting more trees in the city to clean the air. We can also use less fossil fuels and more solar energy instead. There should be some strict laws to protect the environment. Finally, I believe that we must all work together to stop pollution.

في الفقرة الأولى نبدأ بجملة المقدمة للموضوع ككل، ثم نكتب الفكرة الرئيسية للفقرة الأولى ومعها أربع جمل للتفاصيل في هذا الموضوع عن أسباب التلوث. (ليصبح عندنا ست جمل)

في الفقرة الثانية نبدأ بالفكرة الرئيسية للفقرة الثانية ومعها أربع جمل للتفاصيل في هذا الموضوع عن حلول التلوث، وبعدها الخاتمة عن رأي الشخصي. (ليصبح عندنا ست جمل)
