VI. Reading Comprehension & Summary Making

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Are the names MySpace, Facebook, Orkut, Twitter familiar to you? They probably are because they are some of the most popular sites on the internet today. These sites are all called social networking sites because they help people meet and discuss things online. Each of these social networking sites has its own strengths: MySpace is especially popular among teenagers, Facebook is popular with college age people, Orkut is especially loved in Brazil, and CyWorld is the site to visit in South Korea. The common factor between all of these social networks is that they provide a place for people to interact, rather than a place to go to read or listen to content.

Did the origin of the Internet surprise you? Back in the nineties, the internet - or web- was a place to go to read articles, listen to music, get information, etc. Most people didn't contribute to the sites. They just browsed them and took advantage of the information or resources provided. Of course, some people did create their own sites. However, creating a site was difficult. You needed to know basic programming languages such HTML coding. It certainly wasn't something most people wanted to do as it could take hours to get a basic page just right. Things began to get easier when blogs (from web log) were introduced. With blogs, many more people began writing 'posts', as well as commenting on other people's blogs.

In 2003 a site named MySpace took the internet by storm. It was trying to copy the most popular features of Friendster, the first social networking site. It quickly became popular among young users and the rest was history. Soon everyone was trying to develop a social networking site. The sites didn't provide content to people, they helped people create, communicate and share what they loved including music, images and videos.

The key to the success of these sites is that they provide a platform on which users create the content. This is very different from the beginning of the internet which focused on providing content for people to enjoy.

Reading Comprehension & Summary-MakingRead the following passage, then answer the questions below:

As summer comes near, many children are really happy to forget about school for a few months. However, they might be taking that goal too seriously. Studies have found that children forget between one and three months' worth of school learning during the summer months. Spelling and math abilities suffer the most, while reading is not really influenced by the time off. The most probable reason for this is that most children read at least occasionally outside the classroom, whether newspapers, magazines, books, or video game guides. However, their math and spelling skills only get exercised in the school setting.

The original purpose of summer vacations was to let farm children have time off to help work in the fields in the high growing season, but this reason is no longer valid since fewer kids actually work on farms today. Some cities in the United States, such as Los Angeles, have moved to a year-round school calendar, which may help reduce the academic decline that occurs during the long summer vacation. Most cities maintain the normal nine and a half-month calendars. To improve skills and to maintain a good level of preparation, superintendents recommend trips to museums, summer camps, vacations with educational components, and visits to libraries to keep kids mentally alert and interested throughout the summer. There are other educational systems that provide vacations while still keeping students' skills sharp. For example, in Japan students attend class for seven weeks consecutively, followed by two weeks of vacation. This continues throughout the year. In Italy, students attend class six days per week, but finish at 1:30 PM each day, so that school does not dominate their life the way that it does in America, where students attend high school from 7:45 AM until 3:00 PM each week day. In areas where there are not enough classrooms, older students attend classes in the morning while the younger kids go to school in the afternoon.

School administrators and educational specialists fear that the three-month summer vacation halts the continuity of learning. When students go back to school after the long summer vacation, they take up to two months to return to their previous level of proficiency. And so the debate continues: whether to continue the status-quo in terms of vacations or to seek changes based on the Los Angeles or the Japanese models.

A) choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

1- The word "which" in paragraph "2" refers to :

- a) farm children
- b) a year-round school calendar
- c) summer vacations
- d) summer camps

2- The word "influenced" in paragraph "1" Means :

- a) to imitate the feeling or character
- b) to hire someone for work
- c) to make efforts to win something
- d) to have an effect on

3- This report can be titled:

- a) Educational systems
- b) Growing seasons
- c) Summer vacation
- d) School learning

4- The main idea of paragraph "3"

- a) Different systems of vacations
- b) Educational specialists fear
- c) Spelling and math abilities
- d) The purpose of summer vacations

B) Answer the following questions:

5- Why isn't reading influenced by the time off during the summer vacation?

6- Which activities may improve skills and maintain a good level of preparation?
