Every year in late August or early September, there is a special festival in a little town called Hatch, in New Mexico, USA. The festival lasts for one weekend, and it celebrates chilli peppers, the most famous food in this area. Farmers grow chillies in late August or early September, the chillies are ready to be picked and eaten. Then everyone gets together and celebrates chilli.

You will know when you get close to Hatch, because you will smell the chillies cooking over fires. People eat chillies with everything! They eat them with meat, with vegetables and even with chocolate! Chilli chocolate is delicious. In town, there are chillies everywhere, in different colours, shapes and sizes. People decorate the buildings with chillies. They hang big bunches outside their houses. Some of them even cover their walls and roofs with chillies!

Visitors come to the festival from all over the USA. There are traditional dances and you can watch cooking demonstrations, which show you how to make dishes with chillies. On both days, there are competitions. For example, there is a prize every year for a person who can eat the most chillies, and another prize for tying chillies into the biggest bunch.
