Is it important for countries to protect animals and wild birds in the modern world? The answer is a strong Yes. The wild should be preserved so we do not lose any more precious creatures. Wild life in general is essential for our life, so losing them means losing life itself.

There are many threats to the existence of animals. People hunt rare animals and use pesticides. Furthermore, forest fires, carbon monoxide from cars, buses, and motorbikes, building roads through the forests and cutting trees contribute to their disappearance.

We all share the responsibility towards the disappearance of animals and birds. The governments and The WWF should prevent the wild life (the natural world) from destruction. We can help protecting wild animals in many ways; by looking after birds, providing running, or dripping water, removing dangerous toxins from the area, collecting money or turning wastelands into a home for animals.

Kuwait plays an important role in protecting rare animals and birds. Al-Jahra Pools Nature Reserve is one of the reserves Kuwait has built to care for these animals. It has become a crucial sanctuary for birds. Rare birds, animals, and plants from all over the world can be seen there. It offers vital protection for birds in Kuwait and in the Middle East.
