Reading comprehension / 1

Read the following text carefully, then answer the questions below:

Children and adults are alike. They enjoy flying a kite on a windy day. However, kites are not always the bright and pretty toys we think of today. Kites started as tools for war. The Chinese flew kites around 3,000 years ago. They used them to get information and send messages.

Since then, kites have become more than just pieces of flying art. They have played significant roles in discoveries. Perhaps the best-known use of a kite was in a scientific experiment described by Benjamin Franklin in 1752. Franklin hoped to prove the connection between lightning and electricity. Another important use of kites was by the Wright brothers in the early 1900s. They used kites to test their ideas about flying, which helped them invent the world's first aeroplane.

Even now, kites are still an essential part of religious and cultural celebrations, and they have become a part of festivals around the world. The planes that allow us to travel worldwide have all descended from the simple kite. They all have the same basic idea.

I. Reading comprehension/2Read the following text, then answer the questions below:

Nine thousand years ago, people did not have money. They traded animals and crops for things they wanted. In China, in about 1200 B.C., people traded shells for the things they wanted. Chinese people also traded metal tools, such as metal knives and shovels for the things they wanted.

Later in China, people made metal money. In about 100 B.C., the Chinese made money of animal skin. The first paper money was made from white coloured deer skin. It came from China about 900 years later. In about 700 B.C., people made the first round metal coins. The coins were made of gold and silver. They looked very similar to the coins we use today.

Coins came from Lydia. Lydia was located where the country called Turkey is located today. After people made coins in Lydia, people in Rome, Iran, and Greece also began making coins. Coins were very strong and could last a long time without becoming damaged. Money changes with time. No matter what it looks like, money means buying things. Money makes trading easier.

B) Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)Read the following text, then answer the questions below:

Plants and animals need to survive in our wild world. How do they do it? There are many ways for plants and animals to live in our world.

The body or skin of some animals is similar in colour to the land around them. Some animals are brown just like the colour of trees so other animals and hunters cannot see them. Some animals can really change colours to match the place around them. Rabbits are a great example of this. Some rabbits' fur will change colours in different seasons. They are brown in the spring, summer, and autumn to match the trees. They become white in the winter when there is snow. This way the rabbit is safer from wild animals and hunters the whole year.

Plants survive in deserts, forests, and the Arctic. Desert plants collect, store, and save water for long time. Some plants have roots that get water very quickly. The water is saved in the centre of the plant. Other plants make chemicals that keep insects and animals from eating them. The poison stops the seeds of other plants from growing. It may even kill other plants that are already growing. Some plants make poisons that can kill a person.
